What's new in World Of Guns VR: Texture Pack 2:

Hits Steam Vets Post navigation World of Guns VR: Texture Pack 2 Hits Steam Vets The first of two texture packs for the Steam version of World of Guns has arrived and I am happy to say there is a delay this time as opposed to the rush job I did on the original. I had to redo the game for all releases. If you were affected, you have probably realized that date has passed and I wish I could blame a delay to a ruling that would allow the textures to be updated with a deeper customization. If you are having any difficulties, please direct your complaints to me, it works better that way and that isn't the game itself. So, I thank you for taking the time to read this, if I have a time machine I can help you out. The first version is now entitled World of Guns 2: Texture Pack and it offers texture updates to all 3 guns released at the time. I now offer the option to customize each gun further as it is possible to get crazy with gun modification. I suggest that you do not attempt to join the player community as we have very detailed information on the real identity of each player which can make it easier to gang up on you. Please keep that in mind. If you have not heard of World of Guns, GunMoose is reviving the classic rail shooter genre and it was originally a zombie game due to the name. Now, with VR, it is getting into the guns as it is a first person shooter.

It utilizes the Steamworks features and includes Steam VR with source from both. However it is not tied to a particular model of Steam VR, so obviously there are concerns the game might be tanked by the release of cheaper, non SteamVR. I am not able to confirm that, so I cannot put any responsibility on the developers as a result. Epic Games has awesome VR support with Unreal Engine for all building and development The three guns are each around 200 VR Missions, giving you as many weapons and improvements as you can manage. You will get arcade mode where your face is actually visible unlike if you simply switch to spectator view like all other players. There is a match finder as well that allows you to search for matches hosted by others. This can be done at any time, not just before you enter a match. For now, each player gets one match, but the developers promise a persistent match system in the future. Here are the features for the control
