A: If you have a raw file or an image containing an embedded text you should be able to copy the text into Notepad++, select Find->Replace->Replace All and search for . This is the regex and it should work. Alternatively you can convert the file to plain text using the program which you mentioned, which will also work. edit: If you have.txt I would suggest using the following Regex for the ' ': \b\w* To do this, use "Find what" and enter ^\w*$ and click find, then "replace with" and enter \b\w* and if you need to do this for some text file just replace "Find what" with ^. Note that you have to select "Regular expression" in the "Find what" field. A: Notepad++ is a great program, I use it all the time. Here's a search and replace text to do what you asked: Find: \r Replace: That will replace all lines with a (horizontal line). You could also do it individually: Find: \r Replace: That will replace \r and then any that follow. Effect of bleeding on the release of free calcium from calcium-loaded perfused pig hearts. Isolated hearts from pigs were perfused with a Krebs-Henseleit solution. Perfusion flow was initiated at 100 ml/min and then reduced to 10 ml/min. The Ca^{2+} concentration of the perfusion solution was altered from 1.6 mM to 2.0 mM. Throughout the perfusion study, the concentration of cytosolic free Ca^{2+} was measured with Fura 2. The response to a small (3 s) Ca^{2+} transients induced by single action potential was compared to the response of the same 3-s transients after having caused a 2-s lag period. At a given concentration of cytosolic free Ca^{2+} , the first Ca^{2+} transient produced an increase in Ca^{2+} equal to 0.29 μM , whereas the second Ca^{2+} transient produced an increase of Ca^{2+} equal to 0.31 μM . The magnitude of the rise in the Ca²⁺ level associated with the recovery of the first contraction was not affected by a
